How did the Fund perform during the reporting period?

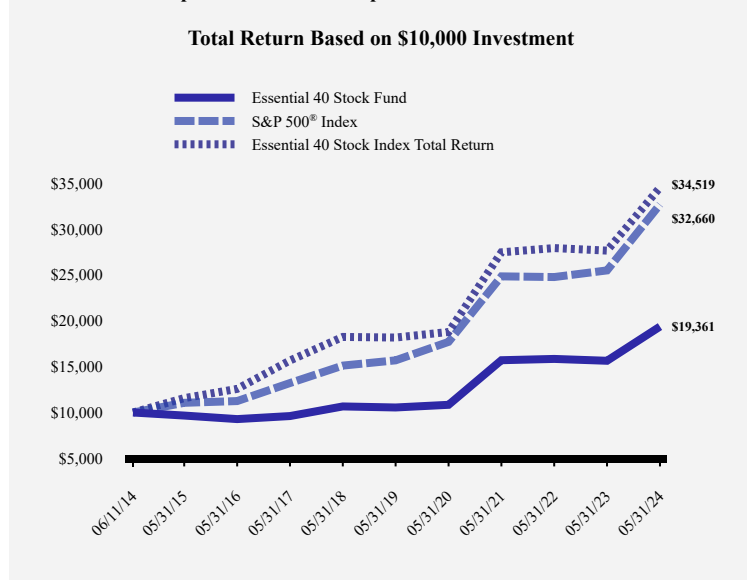

The Essential 40 Stock Fund outperformed the S&P 500 Index to start the first half of the fiscal year primarily due to its diversification of blue-chip names, equal-weighted composition, and sector exposure. The continued strength of the consumer and the resiliency of the U.S. economy was a significant undercurrent on the Essential 40 Stock Fund.

During the second half of the fiscal year the market experienced a big shift as the artificial intelligence ("AI") theme that ignited a global equity rally in 2023 picked back up in November. This rotation created significant dispersion in the equity markets shifting the focus back on the mega-cap stocks often referred to as the Magnificent 7. The performance pendulum shifted back to favor the S&P 500 Index in the back half of the fiscal year.

At the end of May 2024, the Magnificent 7 concentration was roughly 31% in the S&P 500 Index. The heavy concentration of the top holdings in the S&P 500 Index has reached an extreme creating an increased potential for volatility. This extreme supports our conviction of owning the market in an equal-weight manner. The equal-weighted stance in the Essential 40 Stock Fund seeks to reduce downside risk and seeks to balance returns, should historical mean-reversion metrics be reestablished.

We appreciate your continued support of the Essential 40 Stock Fund (ESSIX), and we look forward to providing a value add to your financial goals.
